In all classifications:

- a. When it is necessary to reduce the number of Employees

 - (ii) An Employee who selects severance loses all recall rights under the Collective Agreement with ENMAX.

23.09 The parties recognize that there may be some unique situations where, not due to lack of work or position elimination, it is in the best interest and desire of the Employer and an Employee that severance be offered to that Employee. In those situations, and at the discretion of the Employer, the Employer may offer severance to an Employee after first having discussed the situation with the Union. The Employee may refuse the offer of severance and employment will continue as if such an offer had not been made. If the Employee accepts such an offer, he will receive severance based on the formula provided in Article 23.08, his employment will be terminated, and rights to redeployment and/or recall will not be available.

Re: IBEW Banks

The parties agree that with the upcoming implementation of a new Human Resources Information System (Workday), there are some limitations in which some of the time/dollar banks are administered and as such require modifications. This letter sets out the specifics related to this process and the terms identified herein take effect immediately. At the conclusion of collective bargaining the applicable language will be incorporated into the new re-write of a new collective bargaining agreement.

All provisions of this agreement will take effect January 1st, 2015 with the exception of payouts of Current Vacation Banks as noted below.

1) Current Vacation Bank (Annual Vacation Entitlement)

- We are transitioning to a new annual vacation accrual system rather than the current accrued vacation system. The expected go live date for the HRIS is January 1, 2015. This means that an Employee's annual vacation entitlement will be pre-populated at the beginning of January for the year and will be reconciled and subsequently reclaimed in the event the employment relationship ends.
- Taking effect January 1, 2016, maximum current vacation equals one and one half (1.5) x annual entitlement, with any excess being paid out in the next pay period.
- The Employee may make a request to pay out up to two (2) weeks of current vacation as long as the Employee has taken the legislated amount of annual vacation.
- If an Employee reaches a milestone with regard to vacation entitlement as detailed in Article 19.0, such entitlement will be effective January of that same year and the amount credited will be prorated to be commensurate with when the milestone is achieved.

2) VO Retirement Bank

- The existing Employees who have earnings in the Vacation Overtime Retirement bank will have the option of a monetary payout at any time. If they do not elect payout, the dollars currently in the bank will be converted to the equivalent in hours and remain in this bank until such time as the Employee elects to retire and takes the time off.
- This bank is effectively frozen; no new contributions may be directed into this bank and no new Employees are eligible to transfer money in.

3) Lieu Bank

- This bank was intended to be capped at one hundred forty-four (144) hours and exhausted within one (1) year. Employees will be given the equivalent time off (subject to Manager's approval) however an Employee may initiate a payout if so desired. Any hours accrued in excess of one hundred forty-four (144) hours will automatically be paid out.
- When eligible Employees move to a non-eligible position, any banked lieu hours will automatically be paid out.

4) The ninety-six (96) hours bank (LOU#7)

- The intention of this bank is to compensate eligible Employees for time spent in daily work preparation. In this regard, any hours accrued in excess of ninety-six (96) hours will be automatically paid out.
- When Employees, occupying eligible positions move to a non-eligible position the bank will be paid out (or at the end of a reversion period if applicable).

Recalibration Process:

On a go forward basis the banks identified below (Shift Premium and Overtime) will be populated in time only (but preserving the dollar value of the hours) and will be subject to a recalibration process, to ensure banks are accurately reflective of current rate. The recalibration will take place in January (or after annual salary increases take effect) and again in the event there is a permanent change in status (ie. Permanent position is accepted).

As an example: If an Employee currently has ten (10) hours in their bank earned at $20/hour which is a value of $200. The Employee now earns $22.50/hour. This means the hours are now calibrated to 8.89 hours for the same value of $200. The Employee now has access to take 8.89 hours of banked time paid out at $22.50/hour. To handle rounding errors when the Employee takes this as time they will only be permitted to take time in full hour increments, therefore the Employee can take eight (8) hours as time and 0.89 will be paid out in the next pay period.

1) Vacation Overtime (VO) Bank (Article 15.00)

- Standby/On Call Bank (Article 16.00)

Since the standby rate of pay may not correspond to the Employee's current rate, we can no longer accommodate the banking of standby pay and as such all standby pay will be paid out at the time it is earned.

- Shift Premium Bank (LOU#1)

This bank is currently tracked in both hours and dollars, as directed by the Employee. On a go forward basis the bank will be populated in hours only and subject to the recalibration process to ensure the time is accurately reflective of current rate.

- Overtime Bank (Article 14.00)

Any overtime elected to be banked by the Employee will be banked in hours and subject to the recalibration process. Should an Employee be working at a different rate when the overtime is earned, the equivalent value in hours (whole hours) will be added to the bank. Example: If you earn $20/hour normally but you earned one (1) hour of overtime at $25/hour ($25 value)...you will receive two (2) hours in your bank (value of $40) and $10 will be paid out to you.

- The VO bank is currently capped at a maximum of eighty (80) hours, this bank will now be capped at one hundred and sixty (160) hours to offset the effects of not being able to bank standby/on call time on a go forward basis.

Excess Banks:

All amounts in excess of the designated bank maximum, as described below, will automatically have the excess portion paid out in the next pay period.

- Current Vacation Bank = maximum of 1.5 x the Employee's annual entitlement
 - Example: If an Employee is entitled to four (4) weeks' vacation the maximum will be six (6) weeks
- Ninety-six (96) hour Bonus Bank = maximum of Ninety-six (96) hours

- VO Bank = maximum one hundred and sixty (160) hours

As a result, the following banks will no longer be required:

- Excess Vacation Bank
- Excess Ninety-six (96) hour Bonus Bank
- Excess Lieu Bank
- Excess VO Bank

Rate of Pay Clarification:

- Base Rate equals the rate associated with the job profile as indicated in the HRIS. This rate will be used to calculate compensation and benefits (including vacation, sick, statutory holiday pay).
- Override Rate equals the rate used to adjust compensation for hours worked at a rate different than base rate (excludes vacation, sick, stat, etc.)
- Where an Employee is required to work intermittently at a higher paid position, the Employee will be paid utilizing the timesheet override rate process.
- Where it is known an Employee is required to work at a different paid position for two (2) or more consecutive months the base rate will be adjusted immediately to be commensurate with the role performed for the duration of the assignment.
- Where an Employee is required to work on an intermittent short term basis that unexpectedly persists for two (2) consecutive months or more, the base rate will be adjusted on a go forward basis for the remaining duration (non-retroactively). The accountability is on the Employee to notify their Manager once they feel they have reached the two consecutive months to initiate a base rate change.

Re: Seniority Tie Break Process

In the event of multiple Employees having the same seniority date and a need to place these Employees in a certain order on the seniority list, the Parties agree to look to the next identifiable milestone with the Company in an attempt to provide a separation of service among the group who are tied. In order, the milestones are:

- 1) Journeyman seniority date
- 2) Date of hire or transfer to the IBEW Bargaining Unit
- 3) Date of hire with ENMAX

If Employees are still tied after the application of these other dates, the order on the seniority list will be determined by the use of a “randomizer” type computer program.

The results will determine the forever after seniority date for each Employee in this tied group.

Going forward, this will be done with all new hire intakes and/or any graduating apprentice classes.

LETTER #1 Your Plan Benefits Oversight Committee

At our August 31, 2004, and October 8, 2004, meetings we discussed the issue of ongoing oversight for the Your Plan Benefits program. We agreed to the following principles and structure for oversight of the benefits program.

- Keep the process as simple and uncomplicated as possible. An Oversight Committee will be created and will be kept small in order to meet this principle. The Committee will normally meet twice a year but can meet more frequently as required. It will consist of the President of CUPE Local 38, the Business Manager of IBEW Local 254, the Vice President of Human Resources and the Director of Human Resources.
- The Your Plan Benefits should cover all Employees rather than be specific to each Employee or union group as this takes advantage of group discounts and keeps administration costs lower.
- Desired changes to the Plan will be brought forward by any member of the Oversight Committee.
- Consensus agreement of the Oversight Committee is necessary for changes to the Plan. Plan management and administration is ENMAX's responsibility.
- Employee input will be sought if significant changes or amendments to the benefit plan are contemplated.
- Benefit issues will be handled through the Oversight Committee. Referral to collective agreement negotiations will only occur in cases of impasse at the Oversight Committee.
- The Oversight Committee will also be responsible for oversight of the ENMAX post-retirement benefits.
- To the extent that there is any conflict between the principles set out in this letter and the "exclusive bargaining authority of the Union and the collective bargaining process pursuant to the Labour Relations Code", it is understood that the "exclusive bargaining authority of the Union and the collective bargaining process under the Labour Relations Code" shall prevail.

Intent Document List of Revisions 32

Preface

The intent document contained in this file has been created in order to provide operational context to the interpretation of specific articles and letters of understanding found within the collective agreement.

It is hoped that this content will provide guidance to employees and supervisors regarding the rationale and intent of specific articles or clauses in the contract. The statements will also clarify the rationale for changes made to the collective agreement.

Additions and deletions will be made to these documents as agreed to through the Employee Relations Council throughout the term of the agreement.

These intent documents are strictly for the purpose of education or explanation. They are not designed to be definitive of any item found with the collective agreement and as such, are not grievable.

1.0 Employee Relations Council - Article 4.00

In order to enhance and sustain the relationship between IBEW Local 254 and ENMAX Corporation, the parties have agreed to the formation of a joint labour management committee herein referred to as the Employee Relations Council (ERC).

1.01 History

During the 2001 collective bargaining process both ENMAX and the IBEW agreed to change the way negotiations were conducted. The working relationship between IBEW Local 254 and ENMAX Corporation had been the foundation on which the Company and employees had been successful in meeting customer expectations.

With the advent of a new era of de-regulation and the evolution of separate and independent corporate entities, ENMAX and the employees represented by the IBEW Local 254, agreed to meet the challenges of an ever competitive and changing future.

It was jointly agreed that in order to meet these challenges. We need to change the traditional ways we did business. This included considering a different way of conducting negotiations.

Rather than a traditional bartering system of win/lose, it was jointly agreed to try a new approach that focused on interest based problem solving. The expectation is that both parties will be better able to meet the interests of their respective constituents while managing conflicts and change, using shared information and working through tough issues. The IBEW also sought more specific ways to contribute to both the benefit of its membership and the success of the company.

In working together, the negotiating teams believe we can create better solutions for our employee's issues while meeting the challenges of a continually changing workforce and evolving business environment.

1.02 Evolution of the Employee Relations Council

Through the exploration of various interests, it was agreed that there was no formal or consistent method of raising concerns about the contract, its intent or its application during the term of the agreement.

With the use of mutual interest problem solving, the parties sought a mechanism to deal with the ongoing issues that arose.

The interests were listed as follows:

- a. A means for the relationship to continue to develop in a positive way.
- b. A means to address issues during the life of the agreement.
- c. A forum to bring forward issues that require resolution in a timely fashion.
- d. A place where during the course of negotiations, issues that require further work could be assigned.
- e. A joint labour management committee that would set down rules and structure and communicate to members and management.

In the past, problems that were raised after negotiations or as a result of negotiations, were handled through the grievance process or through various ad hoc labour management committees.

Questions on the intent of collective agreement articles were sometimes dealt with through side deals, which at the time created inconsistency.

The Bargaining Committees from both ENMAX and the IBEW considered and evaluated various solutions. The result was that the creation of the Employee Relations Council.

1.03 Role of the ERC

The role of the ERC is to provide both parties with the opportunity to resolve labour management based issues during the life of the agreement. The council is not meant to replace the grievance process.

The parties recognize the benefits of strengthening the relationship through the use of ongoing Mutual Interest Problem Solving, enhanced communications and by exploring the future opportunities together.

1.04 ERC Membership

The council shall be composed of an equal number of representatives from the IBEW and the management from the ENMAX group of companies.

Each party will appoint their respective representatives. It is the intent of the parties that representation shall be made from the ENMAX group of companies, the IBEW, and its business office.

A sample structure would be as follows:

Human Resources – Director
ENMAX Power – Manager (3)
ENMAX Power Services – Manager (1)
ENMAX Power – Representative (1)
IBEW – Business Manager
IBEW Representatives – ENMAX Power (3)
IBEW Representatives – ENMAX Power Services (2)
(All representatives will be trained in interest based problem solving).

1.05 Authority

It is intended that the ERC would have formal authority to make recommendations for change to their respective constituents. This responsibility would include:

- a. Making recommendations for temporary and permanent changes to the Collective Agreement.
- b. Determining the appropriate ratification process where council decisions amend the collective bargaining agreement. Each party will make these decisions for their respective constituency.
- c. Dealing with issues contributes positively or negatively to the ongoing relationship between the IBEW and ENMAX, the employees and management or other matters that the Council agrees are of mutual interest.
- d. Making recommendations in areas such as Technical Training, Policy Development and the development of leadership skills for the employees.
- e. Authorizing the formation of sub-committees to perform analysis and bring forward recommendations on specific agreement of labour relations issues.
- f. Approving, modifying, or rejecting recommendations from the sub-committee(s).
- g. Setting meetings dates or deadlines for project completion.

1.06 Decision Making

All council decisions will be based on consensus of the members of Council utilizing a mutual interest based problem-solving model. The council will develop an “ERC Charter” that will deal with the specific detail of the Council’s responsibilities. This will include:

- a. establishment of working rules,
- b. the development of criteria or procedure for raising of the issues to the Council level,
- c. how issues will be prioritized,
- d. what to do with the unresolved issues,
- e. the communications of results,
- f. the method of record keeping and the use of the “group memory” (flip chart notes),
- g. a method of evaluation to monitor and improve working processes of the ERC,
- h. the process of scheduling Council member attendance.

1.07 Administration

The Council will be co-chaired, initially by IBEW Business Manager and the Director, Human Resources. It is hoped that the chairmanship can be rotated to enable other representatives to undertake the responsibility and provide consistency to the transition of new members.

It will be the responsibility of the Co-chairs to:

- Co-ordinate activities of the ERC,
- Schedule meetings,
- Organize and distribute agenda,
- Arrange meeting locations,
- Provide facilitation,
- Ensure training and transition of new members.

1.08 Recognition

Membership on the Employee Relations Council develops skills, abilities, and experience that are valued by ENMAX and the IBEW.

1.09 Consensus – A Workable Definition

When in problem solving and I am a participant:

- a. I have heard and understood the issue,

2.0 Job Selection - Article 10.00

2.01 Introduction

In an effort to resolve outstanding issues with the Job Selection Process, the Parties agreed to utilize two separate selection processes in order to fill vacancies.

- a. Selection Process A
- b. Selection Process B

2.02 Selection Process A

The Selection Process A for vacancies will be based upon the following criteria:

- a. Job Postings which have a standardized format listing:
 - Qualifications,
 - Specific focus (e.g. Trades focus or Leadership Focus),
 - A description of duties and expectations,
 - The critical dimensions of the position,
 - Experience requirements.
- b. Resumes
Candidates will be required to submit current resumes listing such items as achievements, experience, relief work, degrees, certifications, certificates, training courses, interests and community involvement, etc.
- c. Human Resources (H.R.) File Information
H.R. file information. Any relevant H.R. File information which may include: performance reviews, feedback, employee achievements and commendations.
- d. References will be captured on a standard written reference form and will include:
 - References supplied by the candidate as well as those sought by the hiring supervisor or manager.

e. Short Listing

- In order to avoid raising expectations and with a view to improving the efficiency of the selection process, supervisors may short list potential candidates.
- When short-listing candidates hiring supervisors will be guided by the seniority principles contained within the collective agreement; all things being relatively equal in short listing candidates, seniority will be the determining factor.

f. Interviews

- To promote trust in the interview process, as well as to promote personal development, IBEW member participation is encouraged on the panel interview team. Typically, the interview team will consist of the hiring supervisor, an IBEW member and an HR representative. However, the mix of interview teams may vary depending on the vacancy and level of the interview team's experience.
- For a typical interview team, roles are defined as follows:

Supervisor (management exempt)

Reviews Human Resources file data, receives input from interview panel colleagues, and is accountable for overall selection process and decision.

IBEW member

Observes for technical abilities and team fit, contributes input and ensures procedural fairness for interview component of overall selection process.

HR Representative

Assists panel colleagues to identify relevant questions to assess critical dimensions. An alternate management employee may be substituted for the Human Resources representative.

Behavioural Interview Process

All interview panel members will be trained in the ENMAX Behavioural Interview Process. IBEW panel members will be rotated through their respective areas.

Confidentiality

All interview panel members will commit to confidentiality as a pre-condition of participation. Breaches of confidentiality will be taken very seriously.

Selection Process

The selection process will consist of two parts, an interview and a panel review of the candidates work history including performance history, references, and Human Resources file information. The interview panel will give equal consideration to both the interview results and the overall review of the candidates work history, in making their final decision on the successful candidate.

g. Treatment of Seniority

When two or more candidates are found to be equal or relatively equal the following principle will be applied; “when candidates are found to be equal or relatively equal, seniority will be the determining factor in the final selection”.

h. Feedback

Feedback will be given to unsuccessful candidates by the supervisor explaining why they were not selected. This will take place following the successful candidate being notified and accepting the job.

2.03 Selection Process B

In the Selection Process B positions, the senior qualified candidate will be selected.

3.0 Job Posting & Selection Process Intent

3.01 Job Posting & Selection Process

The Job Posting and Selection Process includes the following steps and general timelines as described. These timelines may vary depending on operational requirements.

Step 1: three (3) - five (5) days

Review process by the Bid Committee to review any changes to the position description as required.

Step 2: five (5) – ten (10) business days
Post the position through the organization's HRIS system.
Positions may also be posted externally at the same time.

Step 3: three (3) – five (5) days
Applications are sent to hiring manager for review.

Step 4: two (2) days
H.R. and hiring manager meet to develop the interview guide.

Step 5: two (2) - three (3) days
Interviews are scheduled.

Step 6: two (2) – ten (10) days
Interviews take place.
Reference checks completed.
Candidates are advised.

Step 7: H.R. creates offer letter signed by Manager/candidate.

Step 8: Successful candidate is notified and released from current responsibilities.

The following processes are established in order to fill vacancies in a timely manner while protecting the integrity of the job posting process:

a. IBEW Notification of Postings

Postings are sent to the IBEW office for information only and not for approval.

b. Shortlisting

It is not reasonable to expect all applicants to be interviewed for all job postings so a shortlist, typically consisting of three (3) to five (5) qualified candidates, is developed by Human Resources and the Hiring Manager. In cases where more than five (5) applicants hold the required qualifications specified in the posted bid, seniority shall be considered in determining the final shortlist.

c. Pre-Approved Bids

Bids pre-approved by the Bid Committee shall be utilized for posting vacancies. If there are changes required to the standard posting for a bid, these changes require pre-approval by the Bid Committee.

It is intended that the Bid Committee will review the posting to ensure the posting is consistent with the standards for fairness that it sets as a part of its mandate. Changes to job postings are to be identified for the IBEW Office.

3.02 Journeyman Vacancies

Journeymen reside within a designated section (e.g. Powerline Technician within Field Resources). When a Journeyman vacancy arises within the section it may be posted in accordance with Article 10.03. If posted, it will be posted internally and externally at the same time. Preference will be given to senior qualified internal applicants who have an interest in moving to a different section.

Posting Journeyman vacancies within a section is intended to provide individuals with opportunity for movement. It is not intended to adversely impact the business or to create additional administration. When multiple vacancies occur in a section, a posting will be put out and the company commits to filling as many of the vacancies from the posting with internal qualified applicants as can be operationally supported. A minimum of one internal qualified candidate will be selected from the posting. Where a concern arises around not selecting more than one internal candidate, an explanation of the adverse impact to the section will be provided.

No more than two Journeyman postings shall be required in any one sequence.

For example:

Sequence	Vacancy	Section	Filled By	Posting
1	New*	EPC Field Resources	EPSC Employee	Internal
2	Replacement	EPSC Field Services	EPC Field Resources Employee	Internal
3	Replacement	EPC Field Resources	New Hire	External

3.03 When Operational or Business Needs Require an Employee to Move

When operational or business needs require an employee to move from one section to another, the company will invite volunteers and select the most senior qualified employee. If there are no volunteers, then the company shall appoint the most junior qualified individual.

3.04 Development Opportunities

In an effort to enhance the operational mobility of employees, any employee can express interest in a development opportunity within a different section or area. Management is responsible for tracking all requests for movement and development made by employees.

Employees are expected to discuss this interest with their supervisor when the interest arises and/or during the annual performance review and career development discussions.

Following the discussion, management will make record of the request.

ENMAX is committed to providing these opportunities based on operational need.

Supervisors and Managers from various sections and/or areas work together to facilitate development opportunities for employees.

4.0 Meter Technician I-IV Job Progression - Article 12.00

4.01 Meter Technician IV Progression - Intent Statement

Concerns were expressed over the lack of progression, or access through to the Meter Technician IV Level, within the Meter Technician classification. Substantive work had been done by the Meter shop committee to develop and measure competencies required, in order to qualify for the senior Meter Technician IV level.

Employees who had successfully completed the skills assessment training, as determined by the Meter Technician Progression Committee, could progress to the senior IV level.

It is intended that this Meter Technician Progression Committee would be a joint committee made up of a representative group from the Meter shop. The joint committee will determine progression of employees through all levels of the Meter Technician classification.

It was also agreed there would be no complement control for the Meter Technician IV positions.

5.0 Assistant System Operator Training - Article 12.00

5.01 Assistant System Operator (ASO)

The current requirements to become an Assistant System Operator include serving two years as a Journeyman Station/Trouble Operator. Through discussion it was identified that a strictly time based qualification no longer adequately meets the training requirements for the position and that a competency based training approach would be more appropriate.

In 2001, recognizing that a more focused effort was required to meet the training needs of Control Centre staff, a dedicated Control Centre

Trainer position was created. Potential ASO's continue to write and must successfully pass the present ASO exam before being moved into the position. In addition, Competency Based Training Modules continue to be developed and administered, an Advanced System Operator Training program is being purchased that includes competency-based training and evaluations.

The dedicated trainer and training tools will help to ensure that staff are properly trained and qualified to assume the role of Assistant System Operator.

5.02 History

Prior to 1996 the Trouble Call taking function was performed by Civil staff under the direction of a Journeyman Powerline Technician in the Trouble area. The Station Operator function was performed by either Journeyman PLT's or PSE's mostly on a relief basis into Control Centre.

Through the reorganization in 1996 the Trouble Call taking function was moved into Control Centre and combined with the Station Operator duties, with the work being performed by Journeyman PLT's or PSE's.

a. Station/Trouble Operator Major Duties

The Station/Trouble Operator position is currently the entry level position into Control Centre and includes 2 major job functions:

- Trouble Operator: handle trouble calls from customers, diagnose probable cause and location, dispatch crews and log calls into the Outage Management System
- Station Operator: crew book-in's to Substations and Manhole/Vaults. Some minor switching, such as recloser blocking.

b. Background Information

Both the Station Operator and Trouble Operator positions operate from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday to Friday with some exceptions, to meet operational needs.

The Station Operator duties are tied directly to ENMAX field crews so that the major portion of the job function ends when the crews book off at the end of the day.

The Trouble Operator duties are transferred to the System Operator and Assistant System Operator on nights and weekends as well as some Statutory Holidays.

5.03 Proposed Changes

a. Create Control Centre Operator Trainee position

Through discussions with Field staff and IBEW members of the Bargaining team, it was identified that very few Journeymen were willing to bid the Station/Trouble Operator position due to the duties attached to the position (i.e. answering trouble calls).

The Control Centre Trainee position would become the entry level position into the System Control Centre. After successful completion of the training program and evaluation it is expected that the trainee would assume full ASO duties and advance to a fully qualified System Operator.

b. Create System Control Centre Training committee (SCCT)

The SCCT committee would be created to determine the level of experience and training achieved through the ASO training program or equivalent experience to advance to a fully qualified Assistant System Operator. The SCCT would include:

- Senior System Operators
- 1 Control Centre Senior Engineer
- 1 Control Centre Manager

The SCCT would seek input from the System Control Centre Trainer, performance evaluations, past experience and any other relevant information to determine the level of competency. Depending on the level of competency achieved a person may advance in less time or more time than indicated on the Training program.

c. Control Centre Operator Trainee Level Training Program

5.04 Short Term Training Plan

In order to address the staffing concerns that will exist at the end of July 2001, with the retirement of a System Operator, the following plan was agreed to:

- a. Identify staff that could be placed in a “Compressed Training Program” that would advance their level of competency to fulfill Assistant System Operator duties and relieve System Operator duties within the required time frame. The Operators that would be involved were part of the group that developed this program and feel that with the following actions they will be ready to advance at the end of July 2001.
- b. Compressed Training Program (CTP):
 - Trainees will spend all of their scheduled shifts on a “one on one” basis with a senior ASO or SO. They will not be scheduled to the Trouble or Control 3 desk.
 - Control Centre trainer will develop modules/provide training keyed to each individuals area of need.
- c. Temporary staff:
 - In order to accommodate the CTP additional temporary staff will be required to assume duties at the Trouble and Control three (3) desk.
 - Contact Health and Safety to see if there are any staff on Light Duty that could be used. Completed - none available.
 - Post bid for regular nine (9) hour days (no shift work) for three (3) month limited term. Completed - bid closes May 30.
 - Send email to all IBEW staff stating purpose of bid and opportunities available in Control Centre. Completed.
- d. Operator Support Program:
 - Develop a standby system where junior Operators would be able to contact a senior System Operator for assistance when required. Details need to be finalized and discussed with System Operators for agreement and implementation. One possible option would be to use the current Standby policy.

e. Scheduled Time Off:

- Training will take precedent over scheduled time off (holidays, VO etc.). Requests will be strictly monitored and no new or additional time off to what is already booked will be permitted without prior approval. Attendance at non-operational type courses may have to be limited or reduced.

5.05 Long Term Options

a. Proactively Promote System Control Centre as a career option.

In order to raise the awareness of career opportunities in System Control Centre for ENMAX employees the following actions will be taken:

Form a joint IBEW/Management team including present System Control Centre Operators to jointly present career options in System Control Centre to targeted areas of ENMAX.

- Post information on Intramax for System Control Centre career pathing.
- Make information available on shift work and schedules for interested staff.

b. Qualified Operators:

- The intent is to promote and train existing ENMAX staff to fill Operator positions in System Control Centre. When this is not possible or practical due to time constraints (unforeseen departure of an Operator), no interest shown from internal staff, or new skill sets (e.g.: generation) are required immediately, external Qualified Operators will be considered. External hires would be placed in the ASO Training program and be assessed by the System Control Centre Training committee to determine advancement timelines.
- This option has not been fully explored and further discussions are required.

c. Hire and train Tech graduate students to become Operators:

- If the predicted shortage of Trades staff occurs in future years, and the continued lack of interest from internal staff to choose Control Centre as a career path, it may become necessary to explore other avenues to attract and train Operators. Many utilities hire and train CET's or Tech graduates to become Operators. This would require additional training requirements such as extended field exposure and possibly different time lines to produce a competent Operator similar to an apprenticeship program.
- This option has not been fully explored and further discussions are required.

6.0 Training - Article 12.00

6.01 IBEW Negotiations 2001

Through discussion it was agreed that given the projected retirements of ENMAX Journeyman Powerline Technicians over the next five (5) to ten (10) years, a staffing shortage of experienced Journeyman will develop. The parties agreed to the following possible options to address this issue:

It was agreed that the overriding factors to the implementation of these solution options would be that:

- Safety will not be compromised.
- Training of Apprentices will not be compromised; the finished product must be a skilled and competent Journeyman.

6.02 Options

a. Enhance Training Opportunities

To further enhance training opportunities for Apprentices it was agreed that a one (1) to one (1) ratio of Journeyman to Apprentices can be used on voltages of less than 750 volts ac. This would not include work on the energized 600-volt dc system. This is a further enhancement to the de-energized construction where a one (1) to one (1) ratio of Journeyman to Apprentices can also be used.

Due to the high levels of fault current present in the Downtown Network System, the ratio of Journeyman to Apprentices will remain at two (2) Journeymen to one (1) Apprentice when working on energized equipment in this area. The two (2) to one (1) ratio is only required when actual energized work is being performed on the Network System and would not pertain to activities such as installing Fibre Optic cables in the manhole/vault system.

b. Hire Journeyman

Continue to hire skilled Journeymen from other Utilities where and when possible. Other jurisdictions may be facing the similar demographics, which may limit the effectiveness of this option in the future. As well we face the distinct possibility of other Utilities hiring Journeymen from ENMAX.

c. Continue to hire and train ENMAX Apprentices - Explore Opportunities to Increase Total Number of Apprentices

The total number of Apprentices that can be in the ENMAX system at any one time is currently limited by the number of Overhead

Bucket Trucks performing Live Line work. This is due to the fact that Third and Fourth year Apprentices are assigned to these trucks in their last two (2) years of training.

This limit is also complicated by the fact that newly hired Journeyman are also assigned to these trucks for training / orientation to our system which further limits the number of Apprentices that can be assigned to these trucks.

In order to increase the total number of Apprentices in the system the following initiatives are recommended and forwarded to the JATC committee to explore and report back to the ERC:

- Review current assignment of Apprentices and Journeyman in Overhead Bucket Trucks performing Live Line work to ensure that all training spots are fully and effectively utilized.
- Explore the creation of Designated Training trucks with clearly defined limits on the type of work that is permitted to be performed. Apprentices in their 4th year of training could be assigned to the Designated Training truck at a ratio of two 4th year Apprentices to one Journeyman.
- Work limits would be restricted to installing/removing single or three phase transformers, Lightning Arrestor replacement, Live Line Insulator Washing and single-phase work including pole replacement or as otherwise mutually agreed.
- Explore the current requirement of Apprentices spending their last eighteen (18) to twenty-four (24) months on Overhead Bucket trucks to determine if this time frame could be reduced and still provide the necessary training and job exposure.

7.0 Standby - Article 16.00

7.01 Intent Document

Standby on a regular workday means that an employee shall be available on call outside of normal hours of work. On each scheduled day of rest and recognized holiday, standby means on call for the full twenty four (24) hour period. The annual schedule should be posted one full calendar month prior to its effective date.

An employee assigned standby on an unscheduled basis will receive one hour at the Journeyman Powerline Technician base rate for week-day coverage, two (2) hours pay for weekend coverage and three (3) hours for standby coverage on statutory holidays. Scheduled notice equals five (5) days.

Examples of standby staffing requirements have been identified as follows, and no employee shall be scheduled for standby duty more frequently than once every four weeks.

Distribution	Three PLTs and one operator. (Representing OH & UG experience)
Substations	Two journeymen (representing PSE and relay experience)
Network	One PLT and one PSE
Locators	One Journeyman PLT or PSE

The exceptions are Transmission, Fleet and System Operation Planners where a designated number of individuals in each area currently alternate weeks.

ENMAX and IBEW Local 254 agree to the following guidelines for the standby crews to follow:

- Typically, the standby week runs Thursday-to-Thursday starting at 07:00 Hr.
- Employee's personal situations will be taken into account when being considered for standby duty.
- The employee scheduled for standby is responsible for all substitutions, the alternate being mutually agreeable to the immediate supervisor.
- The employee on standby earns the premium for that shift, whether scheduled or on traded time.
- The intent is that employees will be scheduled standby on their long work week. (Wherever possible an employee will not be scheduled for standby on their short work week).
- At minimum, the same crew compliment should be used in emergency work as during regular working hours.

8.0 Re-Deployment - Article 23.03

The parties believe that this interpretation reflects the intent and addresses concerns regarding the application of Article 23.02.

Example: In this example the Leadhand is redundant and would be offered redeployment or severance.

Example:

In this example, should the most Junior Civil be laid off he would be eligible to severance as per Article 23.08 (b).

9.0 Training - Article 26.00

9.01 Training Intent Document

Through discussions in 1999-2000 it was agreed that the training practices had been applied inconsistently. Three major issues with the application were:

- Some employees had more and others had less access to training opportunities. The approval of courses appears to differ in various areas of the Company.
- Secondly, reimbursement for the cost of courses was not uniformly applied and there was confusion over which courses and what expenses would be reimbursed.
- Thirdly, the application of paid travel time for employees taking courses was not clear and as a result, not applied in any consistent manner.

The interest of the parties include:

- Both IBEW, ENMAX, and the employees have a shared responsibility for training.
- Training is a requirement in order to continue to have a highly skilled and productive workforce and ensuring high morale and job satisfaction.
- We needed to maximize the use of training dollars.
- All training needed to be used and in turn, prove to be useful.

In order to improve the consistency in the application of training, it is the intent to use the following training guidelines based on two separate employee groups:

- Non-Shift Operations
- Shift Operations

(This does not include Apprentices while attending apprenticeship technical training)

Reimbursement for the cost of attendance, travelling and lodging as required should be based on the following criteria:

Mandatory Training

If the coursework/training is deemed to be mandatory and non-discretionary, where the employee is directed to attend, the Company agrees to reimburse all reasonable costs for attendance. This includes the cost of wages, tuition, materials, travel expenses and lodging.

Some examples of mandatory training may be legislated courses or safety courses, determined as necessary in order to fulfill the employees current responsibilities. Payment of overtime will be made where applicable. (See detail graph, 9.02 of this intent document).

Optional Training

In the event that training is deemed by the supervisor to be optional or discretionary, the Company agrees to cover reasonable expenses incurred to attend. These will include the cost of tuition and materials.

Participation in optional training will not cause overtime or cause the employee to have less than the prescribed amount of rest between shifts.

Employees, where practical, may be given the option of mutually re-scheduling or attending similar training on an alternate date.

Where out of town travel is required, accommodation and travel expenses will be covered. (See detail graph, 9.02 of this intent document)

Optional training may include courses, which are not necessarily required for the current position held, however, are determined to add value to the employees' and the Companies current and foreseeable future needs.

Personal Training

Personal training opportunities are courses the employee wishes to take and shall be determined in consultation between the employee and the respective manager/supervisor.

Reasonable cost for tuition and books can be reimbursed after successful completion of the course requirements. It is recommended that the criteria for reimbursement for Personal Training courses be based on courses related to the employees' current position within the Company or where there is reasonable opportunity for adding value to the employees' current and potential career path with the Company.

No travel or lodging expenses will be covered in these regards.

10.0 ENMAX/IBEW Joint Initiatives Intent Document

10.01 Introduction

ENMAX Management and the IBEW Local 254 have mutually agreed to build a new working relationship based upon collaboration and problem solving of issues that impact both the company and the IBEW membership. In the spirit of the new relationship, as outlined in the “Statement of Intent”, ENMAX Management and the IBEW recognize that certain initiatives related to training and communication would be enhanced by a collaborative and joint approach to the design and delivery of the training and communication vehicles.

10.02 Initiatives

Two initiatives have been identified that would provide added value for both management and the IBEW membership. Other initiatives may be identified during the term of this collective agreement.

- A training program for managers, supervisors, coordinators and shop stewards in the Grievance process. The IBEW has developed a program for delivery to shop stewards. Management will review the program, and with the participation of the IBEW, develop enhancements, modifications and additions to the training program. The program will focus upon employee relations and industrial relations, and will include areas that are of mutual benefit.
- A communications (roll-out) program to ensure those managers, supervisors, coordinators, shop stewards and other employees will achieve a working knowledge of the changes, modifications and additions to the Collective Bargaining Agreement.

The advantages of joint collaboration in the design and delivery of the above training and communication programs are:

- Both Management and the IBEW membership will get the same messages, delivered by the same people.
- The programs will be designed to meet the needs of both management and the IBEW membership.
- The mutual participation will provide management and the IBEW another process to build trust and enhance the working relationship.
- We will achieve a higher level of openness with respect to the problems and concerns of each group.

Finally, these jointly designed and delivered initiatives are intended to demonstrate the active commitment of both ENMAX and the IBEW toward a more effective long term working relationship. Following ratification of the CBA, the Manager of Employee Relations and Ability Management and the IBEW Business Manager will develop a plan and process for the design and delivery of these initiatives.

11.0 Bereavement Leave - Article 20.00

The intent of this article is to ensure that employees who are faced with a death in the immediate family, or more distantly related, are provided with the time necessary to attend to the funeral and/or other matters related to the death. The amendment to the article was intended to resolve issues arising with consistency of application, and provides for employee discretion.

Article 20.04 (c) provides an employee with the opportunity to attend funeral services for those relatives not considered immediate family members. The time granted is to a maximum of one day, with managerial discretion.

Similarly, with managerial discretion, it is further understood that 20.04 (c) may be applied in the event of the death of a co-worker.

12.0 Employee Categories and Definitions – Article 6.00

Seniority

To clarify IBEW seniority, the following definitions have been determined:

- IBEW Bargaining Unit Seniority

The IBEW Bargaining Unit Seniority Date represents seniority accumulated within the bargaining unit commencing from the date that an employee became permanent; either through successfully posting to a permanent position.

The IBEW Bargaining Unit Seniority Date for permanent employees hired prior to October 16, 2003 shall be the most recent date of hire.

- IBEW Journeyman Seniority

The IBEW Journeyman Seniority Date is provided for all Journeymen. This date represents the date for an employee who apprenticed with ENMAX and attained his Journeyman status. This date also represents the most recent date of hire for those employees who attained their Journeyman status prior to being hired with ENMAX. Seniority commences from the date that the employee became permanent.

Around 1978 a joint decision was made for new Journeyman who apprenticed with Calgary Electric System to have their Journeyman Seniority backdated six (6) months in recognition of experience attained as an apprentice. This practice remains in place today.

Multi-trades:

The IBEW Journeyman Seniority date for employees with more than one trade shall be the date that they obtained journeyman status in the trade they are currently working in, subject to the six (6) month recognition provision noted above.

In the event that seniority needs to be considered for redeployment purposes an employee's seniority in the current trade shall initially be based on his Journeyman seniority date in the current trade. If he is unable to retain a position in his current trade and had previously been an ENMAX Journeyman in another trade, he can redeploy into that previous trade using the Journeyman seniority date of the previous trade, assuming he is still qualified and has the ability to perform the job. If there is no eligible Journeyman job remaining available to the employee, then the total amount of ENMAX seniority shall be considered in displacing a more junior Civil person as per the diagram example in Article 9 of this intent document.

The employee's previous Journeyman seniority will also be considered when bidding jobs in the original Journeyman trade assuming he is still qualified and has the ability to do the job.

The seniority list shall also include the following information for each employee:

Company:	Intended to mean individual companies within the ENMAX corporate structure (e.g. ENMAX Power Corporation, ENMAX Power Services Corporation, etc.)
Job Code:	Refers to the job code that the employee is permanently classified in
Description:	Job title or brief description of the job
Department/Section ID:	An administrative number that represents the department and/or section
Dept./Section Description:	Department and/or section title or brief description of the department and/or section

13.0 Journeyman Power System Electrician - Article 28.05

The change to this article is for housekeeping purposes and is intended to reflect current practice. The Journeyman can ask for additional support if the Journeyman feels he needs it to work safely under the Alberta Electrical and Utility Code (AEUC) and the Safe Work and Operating Procedures (SWOP). It is the Journeyman's decision to determine if he requires additional Journeyman to help him work safely. If the Journeyman feels he simply needs some additional manpower but not necessarily a Journeyman, he is able to have an apprentice or another worker to assist.

14.0 Apprentices - Article 29.04

The change in this article is for housekeeping purposes and is intended to reflect current practice. The change is to remove in situ testing from paragraph (d). This means that a one to one ratio of Journeyman to Apprentices can be used for working on secondary voltage in situ testing. If the Journeyman does not have an apprentice working with him, he may also do this work alone.

15.0 Special Assignments

A concern was raised regarding how to handle special work assignments/opportunities that don't meet the posting requirements under the Collective Agreement. The primary concern relates to special assignments and/or opportunities that may provide an employee with an advantage over other employees (e.g. special training that may help ensure success on a bid).

This is not intended to refer to regular day to day work activities that are or maybe assigned to employees. Special assignments, as intended above, refers to assignments that are outside of the normal scope of the day to day activities and may provide some opportunity for career development and/or potential for promotion.

It is intended that special assignments be appointed to employees on a fair basis. Wherever appropriate, Managers and Supervisors will utilize an Expression of Interest Process when assigning special work or opportunities so that employees in the immediate area first then section and/or department will have a fair opportunity to indicate their interest in being considered.

An Expression of Interest is a posted memo or email that briefly describes the work assignment, the estimated duration of the assignment and the person to contact to express interest. It is available to the employees in the immediate area first then section and/or department.

Employees will be assigned through this process based on the work assignment and operational needs. Ability and seniority will be considered.

It is understood that once the performance development process is in place, special assignments/opportunities may be provided to employees who have expressed an interest through discussions with their Supervisor or Manager. In these instances, these discussions may be considered as the Expression of Interest process.

16.0 Temporary Change of Duties – Article 9.00

Article 9.00 applies when an employee has been assigned a temporary change of duties by the company.

9.02 is intended to provide additional compensation for Utility Workers who are assigned duties over and above what is regularly required and/or expected.

Examples include:

- When a Leadhand leaves the job site for a short period of time and designates a Utility Worker as the employee in charge.
- When a Leadhand divides the crew and designates a utility worker to be the employee in charge at an alternate location.
- When a Utility Worker is assigned a specific task working with a trades crew (e.g. running a cable pulling trailer)
- When a Utility Worker is assigned to drive a vehicle for a trades crew (e.g. bucket truck).
- When a Utility Worker is assigned responsibility for a specific task or portion of a job such as when a job is spread out (crew hot digging at one end and setting a manhole at the other end).

It is not intended to cover situations where the tasks are normally the responsibility of a Utility Worker, or where a Utility Worker is assigned to a job with a specified rate, such as:

- When hot digging or jack hammering with the Leadhand on site
- Working as a Truck Driver

17.0 Health & Safety

ENMAX and IBEW Local 254 are committed to jointly enhancing and promoting health and safety in the workplace.

To increase the visibility of incident investigations, IBEW is invited to appoint an individual to participate in the investigation process for any incidents that require Class 3 investigation.

18.0 Definition of Full Pay

The following is provided to clarify the meaning of “full pay” in Articles 21.03 and 22.00 of the Collective Agreement.

In the event that an employee is injured at work, the parties agree that the employee shall be paid as if he or she was at work. The principle is “no loss, no gain”.

If the employee is working in a relief assignment he or she continues to receive the earnings associated with the relief role until the time when the relief assignment normally would have ended.

Scenarios:

1. An employee working in a relief or temporary assignment with a defined end date:

In this case, the employee continues to receive the earnings associated with the relief or temporary assignment until the end date. Following the end date, the employee’s pay will be adjusted to correspond with his regular role and regular base earnings.

2. An employee working a relief or temporary assignment with no defined end date:

In this case, the employee continues to receive the earnings associated with the relief or temporary assignment until the circumstances change.

3. An employee holding a relief bid but not working it at the time of injury/illness:

In this case, there is no defined period of time working in the relief assignment and therefore the employee’s pay will be based on the base or regular classification.

In all scenarios, the pay is inclusive of premiums.

For example, if a Powerline Technician is working in a temporary assignment as a Leadhand on night shift receiving Leadhand rate of pay, shift differential, night shift premium (pro-rata of 80 hours), weekend premium and corporate holiday premiums, he will continue to receive this pay as per the shift schedule.

19.0 Trouble Response Hours of Work – Letter of Understanding #5

Movement Between Posted Schedules:

In Trouble Response there are a number of different posted shift schedules. Examples include Days/Afternoons, Night Shift, Weekend and Days (4-10's). Permanent vacancies on any posted shift schedule are bid. Permanent movement from one shift schedule to another is through the bid process.

For long term relief on the Days/Afternoons shift, preference will be given to individuals working on the Weekend shift.

Any moves between the shifts for short term relief or training will be done through mutual agreement as per paragraph #14.

20.0 Vacation Enhancement

- ENMAX employees with at least ten (10) years' experience using twenty (20) years of age as a starting point for calculation purposes) will accrue annual vacation entitlement of four (4) weeks per year until the beginning of the 17th year of employment with ENMAX.
- ENMAX employees with less than ten years prior experience will accrue an annual vacation entitlement of three (3) weeks per year until the earlier of achieving ten (10) years prior experience or the beginning of an employee's eighth (8th) year at ENMAX.

21.0 Construction Electricians (Inside Wiremen) in EPSC

In EPSC, Construction Electricians can be assigned to the same work as Journeyman Powerline Technician/Power System Electrician provided they are deemed qualified and safe to do so in accordance with applicable legislation.

ENMAX and IBEW agree that Construction Electricians shall have the opportunity for progression into roles that they are deemed qualified to hold. Specifically, as established by the qualifications they can be considered for Leadhand, Project Leader, Planner and Coordinator roles in the section.

Where applicable, bids should be updated through the Bid Committee to reflect their eligibility.

22.0 Jurisdictions – Article 11.00

Both ENMAX and IBEW Local 254 recognize the significance and tradition of the jurisdictional definitions in Article 11.00. These broad categories are intended to provide a general definition of the applicable trades and civil roles and describe the work typically associated with those roles. In most cases, jurisdiction is used to describe “who” does the work.

ENMAX and IBEW also recognize the importance of getting work done in the most efficient and safest way possible. Further, both parties see the changing marketplace, and the very real need to do things differently. Accordingly, the parties agree that there may be time when jurisdictions overlap and/or where the role of Civil employees is expanded to better support the trades.

Some examples include:

- Civil employees assigned to pulling crews (handling de-energized cable), working under the direction of an electrical trades Journeyman.
- Civil employees dressing manholes and vaults, working under the direction of an electrical trades Journeyman.
- Construction Electricians (IW) assigned to the same work as Powerline Technicians/Power System Electricians in EPSC.
- Journeyman Powerline Technicians (who are qualified equipment operators) may operate equipment in the event that no other MBTO is available within their company.

These examples are intended to provide flexibility where needed. It is not intended to result in job loss or a reduction of jobs. ENMAX will continue to actively recruit for trades and fill vacancies. Further, ENMAX will continue to support and maintain its apprenticeship program at the fullest of its capacity.
